

REAL ESTATE APPRAISER RENEWAL REQUIREMENTS

For the January 1, 2012 - December 31, 2013 renewal period, all appraisers must:

1. Demonstrate possession of the requisite hours of continuing education ("CE"); and
2. Provide evidence of having taken a 7-hour National Uniform Standard of Professional Appraisal Practice ("USPAP") update course or its equivalent during the renewal period.
The 15-hour USPAP course cannot be used to fulfill this requirement.

The requisite hours of CE are as follows:

- Appraisers receiving their first license or certificate (new license or certificate including endorsement; not upgrade) from January 1, 2010 to December 31, 2010 and those renewing existing credentials must provide proof of 28 hours of CE.
- Appraisers receiving their first license or certificate (new license or certificate including endorsement; not upgrade) from January 1, 2011 to June 29, 2011 must provide proof of 14 hours of CE.
- Appraisers receiving their first license or certificate (new license or certificate including endorsement; not upgrade) after June 29, 2011 are not required to submit any proof of CE hours.

NOTE:

The 7-hour USPAP update course is included in the total number of requisite hours mentioned above. A 15-hour USPAP course will not be accepted to fulfill either the USPAP requirement or the additional hours required to renew your license.

All CE courses must be approved by Hawaii, another state or the Appraisal Qualifications Board (AQB). If you submit a course from another state, it is your responsibility to provide that state's course index or course approval number. CE hours may be completed via an internet course. The Federal Financial Institutions Examination Council's Appraisal Subcommittee will raise the annual National Registry fee from $25 to $40 ($50 to $80 in Hawaii due to the two year renewal cycle) effective January 1, 2012. Anyone renewing on or after January 1, 2012, will be required to pay the higher fee.

Reminder: All licensed and certified appraisers must take the 7-hour USPAP update course every two calendar years.
