GENERAL INFORMATION ON CONDOMINIUMS

A condominium is a special form of real property. To create a condominium in Hawaii, the requirements of Hawaii's "Horizontal Property Act" (Chapter 514A, Hawaii Revised Statutes) must be followed.

If you are a typical condominium apartment owner, you will have two kinds of ownership: (1) ownership in your individual apartment; and (2) an undivided interest in the common elements.

Common elements are the areas of the condominium project other than the individual apartments. They are owned jointly by all apartment owners and include the land, either in fee simple or leasehold, and those parts of the building or buildings intended for common use such as foundations, columns, roofs, halls, elevators, and the like. Your undivided interest in the common elements cannot be separated from ownership of your apartment.

In some condominium projects, some common elements are reserved for the exclusive use of the owners of certain apartments. These common elements are called limited common elements and may include parking stalls, patios, lanais, trash chutes, and the like.

You will be entitled to exclusive ownership and possession of your apartment. Condominium apartments may be individually bought, sold, rented, mortgaged, or encumbered, and they may be disposed of by will, gift, or operation of law.

Your apartment will, however, be part of the group of apartments that comprise the condominium project. Study the Declaration, Bylaws, and House Rules. These documents contain important information on the use and occupancy of apartments and the common elements as well as the rules of conduct for owners, tenants, and guests.

Some condominium projects are leasehold. This means that the land or the land, building(s) and other improvements are leased to the buyer. The lease for the land usually requires that at the end of the lease term, the lessees (apartment owner/tenant) deliver their interest in the land to the lessor (fee property owner). The lease also usually requires that the lessees either (1) convey to the lessor the building(s) and other improvements, including any improvements paid for by the lessees; or (2) remove or dispose of the improvements. The leases for individual apartments often require that at the end of the lease term, the lessee deliver to the lessor the apartment, including any improvements placed in the apartment by the lessee.

Operation of the Condominium Project

The Association of Apartment Owners is the entity through which apartment owners may take action with regard to the administration, management, and operation of the condominium project. Each apartment owner is automatically a member of the Association.

The Board of Directors is the governing body of the Association. Unless you serve as a board member or an officer, or are on a committee appointed by the board, your participation in the administration and operation of the condominium project will in most cases be limited to your right to vote as an apartment owner. The Board of Directors and officers can take certain actions without a vote of the owners. Some of these actions may significantly impact the quality of life for all apartment owners.

Until there is a sufficient number of purchasers of apartments to elect a majority of the Board of Directors, it is likely that the developer will effectively control the affairs of the Association. It is frequently necessary for the developer to do so during the early stages of development and the developer may reserve certain special rights to do so in the Declaration and Bylaws. Prospective buyers should understand that it is vitally important to all apartment owners that the transition from developer to owner control be accomplished in an orderly manner and in a spirit of cooperation.

The Sales Contract (hereinafter "Contract") provides the terms and conditions of the sale and purchase of the interest to be conveyed thereby: individual apartment in fee simple, together with its underlying land, land area adjoining and adjacent thereto and appurtenant parking stalls in covered garages as limited common elements thereof and an undivided percentage interest in the common elements of the Project (hereinafter "Apartment"). Accordingly, among other things, it provides the purchase price thereof; payment thereof, including financing, if any; escrow agreement related thereto; expenses related thereto and payment thereof by the purchaser; cancellation thereof and refund of moneys paid as a result thereof; and default thereunder and remedies as a result thereof.

More particularly, among other things, the Contract provides that:

- (1) The Apartment is to be constructed with moneys paid for the purchase thereof, including but limited to that which the purchaser thereof obtains through financing sought and secured by such purchaser;
- (2) The purchaser approves and accepts the plans and specifications of the Project, but authorizes changes thereof if deemed necessary or appropriate by the Developer to complete the Project;
- (3) The purchaser shall apply and obtain any and all building and other permits, required for the construction of the Apartment, from governmental authorities therefor;
- (4) The purchaser shall be held in default thereunder for failure to make payments when due and/or to perform other obligations, upon which the Developer may institute legal proceedings for relief, including but not limited to specific performance, damages and attorneys' fees incurred in connection therewith;
- (5) The Developer may increase the purchase price of the Apartment as a result of delay in the development and construction of the Project due to events, matters or conditions beyond the control of the Developer, which increase shall be proportionately shared amongst all purchasers, based upon their common interest percentage,

SUMMARY OF ESCROW AGREEMENT

The Escrow Agreement ("Agreement") is with King Escrow Services Corp., a Hawaii Corporation ("King Escrow"). Among other things, the Agreement provides that all moneys paid by any purchaser, prior to issuance of the Final Public Report, shall be deposited with and held in trust by King Escrow instead of the Developer and that King Escrow shall disburse the same on behalf of the Developer only upon the following: (1) written certification by the Developer that (a) the sales contract thereof has become effective, (b) the Developer has notified the Real Estate Commission of the State of Hawaii ("Commission") in writing of its intention to offer to sell interests in the Project, accompanied by a fee of $250 and a verified copy of a filled-in questionnaire therefor, (c) the Developer has filed with the Commission a specimen copy of the proposed contract of sale and an executed copy of the Escrow Agreement, and (d) the Developer has delivered to the purchaser, either personally or by registered or certified mail, return receipt requested, a disclosure document which describes any material change in the Project which directly, substantially and adversely affects the use or value of such purchaser's apartment or appurtenant limited common elements or the amenities thereof available for use by such purchaser and contains a provision for written approval or acceptance of such change, and such purchaser has been notified in writing that such purchaser will be deemed to have approved and accepted the change upon failure to act within thirty (30) days from the date of said delivery, and such purchaser has either so approved or accepted the change, or so failed to act and thus deemed to have approved and accepted such change, or ninety (90) days has lapsed since such purchaser has accepted the apartment or the occupancy of the apartment by such purchaser, which lapse was not prior to delivery of such disclosure document, as aforesaid; (2) issuance of the Final Public Report of the Project; (3) Escrow has received a copy of the Receipt and Notice of Right to Cancel related to such Report, which waives such right, as executed by the purchaser or the failure of the purchaser to so act within thirty (30) days from the date of delivery of such Report.

The Agreement also provides that such disbursements are to be made only for the payment of construction costs of the buildings of the Project, and fees and expenses related thereto, all in accordance with bills submitted therefor and approved for payment by the mortgage thereof, if any, or a financially disinterested person, or certified for payment by a registered architect or a professional engineer, as the case may be.
