SPECIAL ATTENTION

This is a CONDOMINIUM PROJECT, not a subdivision. It does not involve the sale of individual subdivided lots. The land area beneath and immediately appurtenant to each unit is designated a LIMITED COMMON ELEMENT and is not a legally subdivided lot. The dotted lines on the Condominium Map bounding the designated number of square feet in each limited common element land area are for illustrative purposes only and should not be construed to be the property lines of legally subdivided lots.

1. This public report does not constitute approval of the Project by the Real Estate Commission, or any other government agency, nor does it ensure that all applicable County codes, ordinances and subdivision requirements have been complied with.

2. Facilities and improvements normally associated with County approved subdivisions, such as fire protection devices, County street lighting, electricity, upgraded water facilities, improved access for owner and emergency traffic, drainage facilities, etc., may not necessarily be provided for, and services such as County street maintenance and trash collection will not be available for interior roads and driveways.

THE PROSPECTIVE PURCHASER IS CAUTIONED TO CAREFULLY REVIEW THE CONDOMINIUM DOCUMENTS REFERENCED IN THIS PUBLIC REPORT FOR FURTHER INFORMATION WITH REGARD TO THE FOREGOING.

General Information On Condominium

A condominium is a special form of real property. To create a condominium in Hawaii, the requirements of the Condominium Property Act, Chapter 514A, Hawaii Revised Statutes, must be complied with. In addition, certain requirements and approvals of the County in which the project is located must be satisfied and obtained.

Some condominium projects are leasehold. This means that the land or the building(s) and other improvements are leased to the buyer. The lease for the land usually requires that at the end of the lease term, the lessees (apartment owners/tenants) deliver their interest in the land to the lessor (fee property owner). The lease also usually requires that the lessees either (1) convey to the lessor the building(s) and other improvements, including any improvements paid for by the lessees; or (2) remove or dispose of the improvements at the lessee's expense. Leases for individual apartments often require that at the end of the lease term, the lessee deliver to the lessor the apartment, including any improvements placed in the apartment by the lessee.

If you are typical condominium apartment owner, you will have two kinds of ownership: (1) ownership in your individual apartment; and (2) an undivided interest in the common elements.

"Common elements" are the areas of the condominium project other than the individual apartments. They are owned jointly by all apartment owners and include the land, either in fee simple or leasehold, and those parts of the building or buildings intended for common use such as foundations, columns, roofs, halls, elevators, and the like. Your undivided interest in the common elements cannot be separated from ownership of your apartment.

In some condominium projects, some common elements are reserved for the exclusive use of the owners of certain apartments. These common elements are called "limited common elements" and may include parking stalls, patios, lanais, trash chutes, and the like.

You will be entitled to exclusive ownership and possession of your apartment. Condominium apartments may be individually bought, sold, rented, mortgaged or encumbered, and may be disposed of by will, gift, or operation of law.

Your apartment will, however, be part of the group of apartments that comprise the condominium project. Study the project's Declaration, Bylaws, and House Rules. These documents contain important information on the use and occupancy of apartments and the common elements as well as the rules of conduct for owners, tenants, and guests.

Operation of the Condominium Project

The Association of Apartment Owners is the entity through which apartment owners may take action with regard to the administration, management, and operation of the condominium project. Each apartment owners is automatically a member of the Association.

The Board of Directors is the governing body of the Association. Unless you serve as a board member or an officer, or are on a committee appointed by the board, your participation in the administration and operation of the condominium project will in most cases be limited to your right to vote as an apartment owner. The Board of Directors and officers can take certain actions without the vote of the owners. For example, the board may hire and fire employees, increase or decrease maintenance fees, borrow money for repair and improvements and set up a budget. Some of these actions may significantly impact the apartment owners.

Until there is a sufficient number of purchasers of apartments to elect a majority of the Board of Directors, it is likely that the developer will effectively control the affairs of the Association. It is frequently necessary for the developer to do so during the early stages of development and the developer may reserve certain special rights to do so in the Declaration and Bylaws. Prospective buyers should understand that it is important to all apartment owners that the transition of control from the developer to the apartment owners be accomplished in an orderly manner and in a spirit of cooperation.

II. CREATION OF THE CONDOMINIUM;
CONDOMINIUM DOCUMENTS

A condominium is created by recording in the Bureau of Conveyances and/or filing with the Land Court a Declaration of Condominium Property Regime, a Condominium Map (File Plan), and the Bylaws of the Association of Apartment Owners. The Condominium Property Act (Chapter 514A, HRS), the Declaration, Bylaws, and House Rules control the rights and obligations of the apartment owners with respect to the project and the common elements, to each other, and to their respective apartments. The provisions of these documents are intended to be, and in most cases are, enforceable in a court of law.

- A. Declaration of Condominium Property Regime contains a description of the land, buildings, apartments, common elements, limited common elements, common interests, and other information relating to the condominium project.

House Rules may cover matters such as parking regulations, hours of operation for common facilities such as recreation areas, use of lanais and requirements for keeping pets. These rules must be followed by owners, tenants, and guests. They do not need to be recorded or filed to be effective. The initial House Rules are usually adopted by the developer.

The House Rules for this condominium are:

IMPORTANT INFORMATION OF LEASEHOLD CONDOMINIUM PROJECTS

The information contained in this report is a summary of the terms of the lease. For more detailed information, you should secure a copy of the lease documents and read them thoroughly.

If you have any legal questions about leasehold property, the lease documents or the terms of the lease and the consequences of becoming a lessee, you should seek the advice of an attorney.

There are currently no statutory provisions for the mandatory conversion of leasehold condominiums and there are no assurances that such measures will be enacted in the future.

In leasehold condominium projects, the buyer of an apartment will acquire the right to occupy and use the apartment for the time stated in the lease agreement. The buyer will not acquire outright or absolute fee simple ownership of the land. The land is owned by the lessor or the leased fee owner. The apartment owner or lessee must make lease rent payments and comply with the terms of the lease or be subject to the lessees enforcement actions. The lease rent payments are usually fixed at specific amounts for fixed periods of time, and are then subject to renegotiation. Renegotiation may be based on a formula, by arbitration set in the lease agreement, by law or by agreement between the lessor and lessee. The renegotiated lease rents may increase significantly. At the end of the lease, the apartment owners may have to surrender the apartments, the improvements and the land back to the lessor without any compensation (surrender clause).

When leasehold property is sold, title is normally conveyed by means of an assignment of lease, the purpose of which is similar to that of a deed. The legal and practical effect is different because the assignment conveys only the rights and obligations created by the lease, not the property itself.

The developer of this condominium project may have entered into a master ground lease with the fee simple owner of the land in order to develop the project. The developer may have then entered into a sublease or a new lease of the land with the lessee (apartment owner). The developer may lease the improvements to the apartment owner by way of an apartment lease or sublease, or sell the improvements to the apartment owners by way of a condominium conveyance or apartment deed.

The buyer may not be able to obtain financing or insurance if the condominium project has a non-conforming or illegal use, structure, or lot.

D. Common Elements, Limited Common Elements, Common Interest:

1. Common Elements: Common Elements are those parts of the condominium project other than the individual apartments. Although the common elements are owned jointly by all apartment owners, those portions of the common elements which are designated as limited common elements (see paragraph 2 below) may be used only by those apartments to which they are assigned. 3. Common Interest: Each apartment will have an undivided fractional interest in all of the common elements. This interest is called the "common interest". It is used to determine each apartment's share of the maintenance fees and other common profits and expenses of the condominium project. It may also be used for other purposes, including voting on matters requiring action by apartment owners. The common interests for the apartments in this project, as described in the Declaration, are:

Exhibit C describes the encumbrances against the title contained in the title report dated January 2, 1996 and issued by Title Guaranty of Hawaii, Inc.

Blanket Liens:

A blanket lien is an encumbrance (such as a mortgage) on the entire condominium project that secures some type of monetary debt (such as a loan) or other obligation. A blanket lien is usually released on an apartment-by-apartment basis upon payment of specified sums so that individual apartments can be conveyed to buyers free and clear of the lien.

- [] There are no blanket liens affecting title to the individual apartments.
- [x] There are blanket liens which may affect title to the individual apartments.

Blanket liens (except for improvement district or utility assessments) must be released before the developer conveys the apartment to a buyer. The buyer's interest will be affected if the developer defaults and the lien is foreclosed prior to conveying the apartment to buyer.

Type of Lien	Effecting on Buyer's Interest and Deposit if Developer Defaults or Lien is Foreclosed Prior to Conveyance
Mortgage	Buyer's deposit will be refunded in full, less escrow's cancellation fee.

Each apartment owner shall have the right, upon obtaining the prior written consent of the holders of all mortgages affecting such apartment owner's apartment, to improve, renovate, remodel, make additions to, enlarge, remove, replace or restore the apartment or portions thereof (herein collectively called the "changes"), subject to the following conditions:

(a) All plans for any such changes shall be prepared by a licensed architect or professional engineer registered to do business in the State of Hawaii and such plans shall conform with all applicable ordinances, rules, regulations and building codes.

(b) No change to an apartment shall be made outside of the land area appurtenant to the apartment; no change will affect any common element or limited common element other than limited common elements appurtenant to such apartment, unless the apartment owner first obtains the written consent of any other affected apartment owner; there shall be at least a ten-foot setback into the land area appurtenant to Apartment No. 1 from the boundary of the land area appurtenant to Apartment No. 2 for any additional improvements to Apartment No. 1 after the date hereof or any improvements, including the replacement of Apartment No. 1 or any portion thereof, made within the land area appurtenant to Apartment No. 1 after the date hereof; and no change to an apartment will be made if the effect of such change would be to exceed the apartment's proportionate share of the allowable floor area or lot area coverage for the land, as defined by the zoning ordinance in effect when the change is to be made. The proportionate share of allowable floor area or lot area coverage for each apartment shall be the same as the apartment's proportionate share of the land area of the project.

(d) During the entire course of construction, the apartment owner making such change will cause to be maintained at such apartment owner's expense builder's all-risk insurance in an amount not less than 100% of the estimated cost of construction. The Association and any apartment mortgagee who so requires shall be named as additional insureds and, upon the request of the Association, evidence of such insurance shall be deposited with the Association.

(e) Prior to commencement of the construction of a change, and as a condition thereto, the apartment owner making such change shall give reasonable assurance to the Association of the apartment owner's financial ability to complete and to pay for the change.

(g) Promptly upon completion of any changes permitted under this Paragraph V, the owner of the changed apartment, at such owner's sole cost and expense and without the consent or joinder of any other person except the holders of all mortgages affecting the apartment, shall duly record an amendment to the Declaration reflecting the changes to such apartment, together with a complete set of the floor plans of the Project as so altered, certified as built by a registered architect or professional engineer."

MAINTENANCE FEES

All costs associated with the maintenance of each apartment and its respective limited common elements are the sole responsibility of each apartment owner.

Section 514A-86, Hawaii Revised Statutes, requires that the Association of Apartment Owners purchase and maintain fire insurance to cover the improvements of the project, and that fire insurance premiums shall be a common expense.

The developer anticipates that the Association will elect to require each owner to obtain separate fire and liability insurance for his apartment and name the Association as an additional insured. In such case, insurance premiums will be the individual responsibility of each apartment owner.
