General Information On Condominiums

A condominium is a special form of real property. To create a condominium in Hawaii, the requirements of the Condominium Property Act, Chapter 514A, Hawaii Revised Statutes, must be complied with. In addition, certain requirements and approvals of the County in which the project is located must be satisfied and obtained.

Some condominium projects are leasehold. This means that the land or the building(s) and other improvements are leased to the buyer. The lease for the land usually requires that at the end of the lease term, the lessees (apartment owners/tenants) deliver their interest in the land to the lessor (fee property owner). The lease also usually requires that the lessees either (1) convey to the lessor the building(s) and other improvements, including any improvements paid for by the lessees; or (2) remove or dispose of the improvements at the lessee's expense. Leases for individual apartments often require that at the end of the lease term, the lessee deliver to the lessor the apartment, including any improvements placed in the apartment by the lessee.

If you are a typical condominium apartment owner, you will have two kinds of ownership: (1) ownership in your individual apartment; and (2) an undivided interest in the common elements.

"Common elements" are the areas of the condominium project other than the individual apartments. They are owned jointly by all apartment owners and include the land, either in fee simple or leasehold, and those parts of the building or buildings intended for common use such as foundations, columns, roofs, halls, elevators, and the like. Your undivided interest in the common elements cannot be separated from ownership of your apartment.

In some condominium projects, some common elements are reserved for the exclusive use of the owners of certain apartments. These common elements are called "limited common elements" and may include parking stalls, patios, lanais, trash chutes, and the like.

You will be entitled to exclusive ownership and possession of your apartment. Condominium apartments may be individually bought, sold, rented, mortgaged or encumbered, and may be disposed of by will, gift, or operation of law.

Your apartment will, however, be part of the group of apartments that comprise the condominium project. Study the project's Declaration, Bylaws, and House Rules. These documents contain important information on the use and occupancy of apartments and the common elements as well as the rules of conduct for owners, tenants, and guests.

Operation of the Condominium Project

The Association of Apartment Owners is the entity through which apartment owners may take action with regard to the administration, management, and operation of the condominium project. Each apartment owner is automatically a member of the Association.

The Board of Directors is the governing body of the Association. Unless you serve as a board member or an officer, or are on a committee appointed by the board, your participation in the administration and operation of the condominium project will in most cases be limited to your right to vote as an apartment owner. The Board of Directors and officers can take certain actions without the vote of the owners. For example, the board may hire and fire employees, increase or decrease maintenance fees, borrow money for repair and improvements and set a budget. Some of these actions may significantly impact the apartment owners.

Until there is a sufficient number of purchasers of apartments to elect a majority of the Board of Directors, it is likely that the developer will effectively control the affairs of the Association. It is frequently necessary for the developer to do so during the early stages of development and the developer may reserve certain special rights to do so in the Declaration and Bylaws. Prospective buyers should understand that it is important to all apartment owners that the transition of control from the developer to the apartment owners be accomplished in an orderly manner and in a spirit of cooperation.

II. CREATION OF THE CONDOMINIUM; CONDOMINIUM DOCUMENTS

A condominium is created by recording in the Bureau of Conveyances and/or filing with the Land Court a Declaration of Condominium Property Regime, a Condominium Map (File Plan), and the Bylaws of the Association of Apartment Owners. The Condominium Property Act (Chapter 514A, HRS), the Declaration, Bylaws, and House Rules control the rights and obligations of the apartment owners with respect to the project and the common elements, to each other, and to their respective apartments. The provisions of these documents are intended to be, and in most cases are, enforceable in a court of law.

IMPORTANT INFORMATION ON LEASEHOLD CONDOMINIUM PROJECTS

The information contained in this report is a summary of the terms of the lease. For more detailed information, you should secure a copy of the lease documents and read them thoroughly.

If you have any legal questions about leasehold property, the lease documents or the terms of the lease and the consequences of becoming a lessee, you should seek the advice of an attorney.

There are currently no statutory provisions for the mandatory conversion of leasehold condominiums and there are no assurances that such measures will be enacted in the future.

In leasehold condominium projects, the buyer of an apartment will acquire the right to occupy and use the apartment for the time stated in the lease agreement. The buyer will not acquire outright or absolute fee simple ownership of the land. The land is owned by the lessor or the leased fee owner. The apartment owner or lessee must make lease rent payments and comply with the terms of the lease or be subject to the lessor's enforcement actions. The lease rent payments are usually fixed at specific amounts for fixed periods of time, and are then subject to renegotiation. Renegotiation may be based on a formula, by arbitration set in the lease agreement, by law or by agreement between the lessor and lessee. The renegotiated lease rents may increase significantly. At the end of the lease, the apartment owners may have to surrender the apartments, the improvements and the land back to the lessor without any compensation (surrender clause).

When leasehold property is sold, title is normally conveyed by means of an assignment of lease, the purpose of which is similar to that of a deed. The legal and practical effect is different because the assignment conveys only the rights and obligations created by the lease, not the property itself.

The developer of this condominium project may have entered into a master ground lease with the fee simple owner of the land in order to develop the project. The developer may have then entered into a sublease or a new lease of the land with the lessee (apartment owner). The developer may lease the improvements to the apartment owner by way of an apartment lease or sublease, or sell the improvements to the apartment owners by way of a condominium conveyance or apartment deed.

Total Number of Apartments: 68

Other documents and maps may give floor area figures which differ from those above because a different method of determining the floor area may have been used.

Note regarding Net Living Areas: Throughout the Ocean Ridge at Makakilo documentation, the area of individual Residences is generally expressed as "net living area" square footage. This measurement represents the architect's best estimate of the interior square footage of the Residence as measured from the interior of each Residence's perimeter and demising walls. This measurement is based upon the plans for the construction of the Residence and different architects performing the same measurement may obtain a larger or smaller result.

^{*} Net Living Area is the floor area of the apartment measured from the interior surface of the apartment perimeter walls.

^{} The square footage for the lanai for all Unit Type B/BR (except for Residence numbers 103, 303, 1103, 1104, 1403 and 1404) is 78 square feet. The square footage for the lanai for Unit Type B/BR Residence numbers 103, 303, 1103, 1104, 1403 and 1404 is 39 square feet.

Residences followed by a "/R" represent a reverse floor plan configuration from that reflected on the condominium map.

Limits of Residences. Each Residence includes all walls, columns and partitions which are not load-bearing within the Residence's perimeter walls (including the garage, if any, associated therewith, as shown on the Condominium Map), the inner decorated or finished surfaces of all walls, floors, ceilings, doors, door frames and window frames along the perimeters, all windows along the perimeters, the air space within the perimeter, the lanais, if any, shown on the Condominium Map to the inner decorated or finished surfaces of the perimeter walls of such lanais and to the interior edge of the exterior railings or other boundaries of such lanais, the entry court or area, if any, shown on the Condominium Map to the inner decorated or furnished surfaces of the perimeter walls of such entry court or area and to the interior edge of other boundaries of such entry court or area, the exterior storage areas, if any, shown on the Condominium Map, all rollers, locks, handles, tracks, and appurtenant hardware associated with all windows, doors and exterior automobile garage doors, if any, and all sliding or swinging screen doors and all glass window screens and all fixtures originally installed in the Residence, and all pipes, plumbing (including water heaters), wires, conduits and other utility or service lines and facilities servicing only the Residence. The Residences shall not include the undecorated or unfinished surfaces of the perimeter party or non-party walls, the undecorated or unfinished surfaces of the doors, door frames and window frames along the perimeters, the interior load-bearing columns, girders, beams and walls, the undecorated or unfinished surfaces of the floors and ceiling surrounding each Residence, the exterior edge of the exterior railings or other exterior boundaries of the lanais, if any, shown on the Condominium Map, or any pipes, shafts, wires, conduits or other utility or service lines running through a Residence which are utilized for or serve more than one Residence, all of which are deemed common elements as provided in this Declaration.

Permitted Alterations to Apartments: Alterations or additions solely within or to a Residence or within a limited common element appurtenant to and for the exclusive use of a Residence shall require the written approval of the Board of Directors and all Residence owners directly affected thereby, as determined by the Board of Directors, and, where appropriate, the Palehua Community Association Design Review Committee. Any alteration or addition different in any material respect from the Condominium Map shall be commenced only pursuant to an amendment to the Declaration, as provided in Section M of the Declaration.

Apartments Designated for Owner-Occupants Only: Fifty percent (50%) of residential apartments must be so designated; developer has a right to substitute similar apartments for those apartments already designated.
